

A Montana native, Raeanna grew up in Lolo before moving to Missoula. She attended the University of Montana where she received her Master of Accountancy degree. Soon after graduating she received her CPA license and joined the public accounting firm JCCS PC. Since then, she has been happily working in the tax sector for several years. Raeanna finds that the most rewarding part of working in tax is helping people. When away from the office, she loves hiking and rockhounding in the warmer months and reading in front of a fire in the colder ones.