Bio:

Emily joined the Destination Missoula team in 2018 and is currently the Group Sales Manager, with a focus in the meetings/conventions market. She works to bring various groups to town for their conventions, meetings, board retreats, and more, plus helps make these groups' Missoula experience unforgettable.

Prior to Destination Missoula, Emily worked for the Missoula consulting firm, williamsworks; an international tour agency, Adventure Life; and the Seattle data brokerage, StrataCore. She has also spent many hours on the tennis court coaching adults and kids.

A Missoula native, Emily grew up in the Rattlesnake Valley and attended Hellgate High School before heading out of state to attend Whitman College in Walla Walla, Washington. Emily graduated with a bachelor's degree in Anthropology from Whitman in 2012. Post college, she enjoyed a year-long stint in Seattle, but the Montana mountains called her home in 2014.

Emily is grateful for her amazing community of family and friends and feels lucky to live just minutes from her parents and childhood home. She loves being outside and takes advantage of every season in Missoula, but also enjoys cozying up in her Westside home with her partner, Matt, and their 8-year-old pup, Junip. Emily is passionate about connecting with Missoula's community and landscapes and wholeheartedly subscribes to Dorothy's mantra: "There's no place like home."
