

Adrienne Tranel

Adrienne grew up on a ranch north of Billings, Montana. As the youngest of ten children, Adrienne knows how to fight for the underdog and is proud to be part of a long line of Montana lawyers. In pursuing her vision to help people, Adrienne represents individuals who otherwise might not have the opportunity to seek justice. In her current practice, she handles cases in a variety of legal areas, including employment discrimination, personal injury and wrongful death, family law, contract disputes, probate and estates, property disputes, and other matters in general civil litigation.

Adrienne is admitted to practice in Montana, Colorado, Maryland and the District of Columbia. She is admitted in both Montana state and federal courts and also practices before administrative agencies including the Montana HRB and the EEOC. Adrienne is currently co-chairing the Continuing Legal Education Committee of the Montana Trial Lawyers' Association and also serves on the board of the Missoula Education Foundation. Adrienne is a graduate of Gerry Spence's Trial Lawyers' College (July 2012) and is a former board member of the Colorado Trial Lawyers' Association.

Adrienne and her husband live and work in Missoula where they try to keep up with their four children. Washington University in St. Louis, with college honors (B.A., English and Anthropology, 2000); Institution Ortega y Gasset, Universidad Complutense de Madrid (M.A., Relaciones Internacionales, 2002); American University Washington College of Law, cum laude (J.D., 2005).
