

Bio – Amber Schaffer

Born and raised in Missoula, Amber is an enrolled member of the Sisseton Wahpeton Oyate of South Dakota. Amber attended the University of Montana, double majoring in History and Native American Studies, and served as the UM Kyiyo Native American Student Association President.

Currently, Amber is a Community Organizer at All Nations Health Center, through Common Good Missoula. In this role, Amber helps develop Indigenous leaders and educate Non-Natives about the lasting effects of colonization. In addition to being a Community Organizer, Amber has owned her own social media management company for the last seven years.

Amber and her husband Bobby have two boys, Sawyer and Noah.