

Hi! I'm Megan McMeekin, a wife, mother, fisherwoman, do it yourself practitioner, and Missoula native. After a 12-year career in civil and commercial construction, I decided to put down my hard hat to pursue a career in real estate. I made the transition out of construction project management and into real estate because I genuinely love working with people and showing how amazing it is to live in Missoula.

Outside of helping my clients buy and sell homes, I keep myself busy with friends and family. I am married to the most selfless man on Earth. We normally stay busy with home renovations projects but have recently had to shift our focus to raising our two little girls, Taylor (2 yrs) and Rylie (1 mo). Now you can find us playing at local parks, the library, or exploring the local trails surrounding Missoula.
